

AMIR 4 PRESIDENT

1 A Strong Community

Lasting memories for everyone.

I've seen and felt the social impact of being a Halls resident.

It's not just a student residence but a diverse and vibrant community of people from all over the world. If elected JCR President, I will create more spaces allowing residents to connect and socialise. This starts with Fresher's week. I intend to host interactive talks and workshops for students to settle down in Dublin and at their new home. From budgeting to dating, I will ensure to answer any questions residents have. In addition, I will closely work alongside the Ents Officer to host social events more regularly. Apart from club nights, I want to use all facilities and venues available to us - be it in Oldham House, the canteen or outside. At any point in time, I will prioritise the safety and wellbeing of every single resident by ensuring the presence of our Welfare Team. Let's embrace our community!

2 Participation

A JCR of all, by all & for all.

It is my highest priority to make everyone feel heard and seen.

This is easier said than done. But I can only succeed in my role as JCR President if I know what residents consider important. As much as I'm committed to working for everyone, above all, I want to work with everyone by allowing residents to participate at any given time. I will encourage students to reach out to me and my colleagues on social media, by e-mail or in person. Every month, I will selectively request ideas, wishes, and needs from residents in every house. Apart from that, I want to make the JCR more visible by offering regular office hours and increasing our social media presence. Lastly, I will use my voice at Union Forum and TCDSU Council to represent the diverse interests of our residents and to fight for better living conditions.

3 Support Systems

A safe space for all.

Mental health is a cornerstone of our well-being, and as JCR President, I am dedicated to ensuring that every resident feels supported and empowered. I will advocate for the expansion of mental health resources and support systems within Trinity Hall. Whether it's financial problems, homesickness or a conflict with a Warden, I'll make sure that every resident receives the support they need.

AMIR 4 PRESIDENT

Hello! My name is Amir. I'm from Germany but also lived in the USA for a while. I study PPES (of course he does) and live in House 82. Living at Halls has had an enormous impact on me. I met some of my closest friends here and continue to be amazed by the plurality of its residents and the strong sense of community. This year's JCR contributed largely to my JF year at Trinity, and I hope to have the same formative impact on Trinity Hall's next generation of residents.

Why me? Being the JCR President is highly demanding, and I'm more than willing to take on this challenge. Throughout my life, I've demonstrated a steadfast commitment to advocating for the needs of my peers. As your JCR President, I will bring enthusiasm, dedication, and a collaborative spirit to the role, striving each day to make meaningful contributions to our community.

Experiences

At the age of 15, I was sent to the United States with a scholarship from the US Congress and the Bundestag to become a Junior Ambassador. As part of the diplomatic programme, I gained valuable communication and leadership skills.

As a long-standing chair of my hometown's Youth Advisory Council, I'm experienced in fighting for the interests of my peers - no matter what it takes.

In the recent past, I co-organised protests for queer rights and social justice.

At Trinity, I've been primarily involved in the Political Society and for Trinity News. However, you will occasionally see me at other events as well.

Thank you!
Go raibh maith agat!
